

SLASHES THROAT WHEN OVERTAKEN

Charles F. Hall, Charged With Larceny, Attempts to Kill Himself.

HAS CHANCE TO RECOVER

FLEES FROM BOARDING PLACE, PURSUED BY DETECTIVES.

Pursued by detectives, Charles F. Hall, a carpenter, ran into a coal shed back of 264 East Third South street and cut his throat almost from ear to ear, yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. He is at St. Mark's hospital. There is a slight chance of his recovery.

Hall's attempt to end his life followed a futile attempt to escape arrest by Detectives Wheeling and Janney on a charge of petit larceny made by Mrs. Mary E. Le Prohon, of 221 East Fourth South street. Hall came here from Denver. When Hall came to Salt Lake he went to live at the house of Mrs. Le Prohon. He fell in love with her and for a time there was talk of a wedding. But after a time, his ardor seemed to cool and the expected marriage did not take place.

Then Mrs. Le Prohon began to notice that various small articles were disappearing from her house. After keeping a vigilant watch for the thief, she claims, she discovered that Hall was the pilferer. Deeply resentful, she went to the police court and secured a warrant for the carpenter's arrest, alleging that he had stolen a mirror, a Bible, a clock, a razor and a glass liquor set.

Flees from the House.

Yesterday morning she telephoned to the police that Hall was at her house and could be taken into custody if officers would hurry to the place. Detectives Wheeling and Janney were detailed to arrest the man. As it was known that Hall was a desperate fellow and might make an effort to escape, Detective Wheeling remained outside of the house to watch the exits while Detective Janney entered to find Hall.

At sight of the detective Hall fled from the room in which he was conversing with Mrs. Le Prohon. Janney followed in hot pursuit. Detective Wheeling, seeing the figures of the fugitive and the pursuer dart from a rear door, took up the chase. Reaching a high board fence, Hall leaped over it with the agility of a trained athlete. Detective Janney took the bundle with equal spirit and, on the other side, made an effort to clutch the collar of the fugitive, but fell and injured his knee.

Reaching the street, Hall ran north in Third West street and then west in Third South street, darting into an alley which led back of 264 East Third South street and scaling two fences to reach the coal shed. There he turned as though exhausted and seated himself upon a pile of coal, in sight of the pursuing detectives. They saw him fumble nervously in his pocket and, thinking that he was going to draw a revolver, pointed their weapons at him.

Paying no attention to them, Hall drew out and opened a razor. With this he slashed himself across the neck, inflicting a terrible wound. He dropped the razor beside him in the coal and was still seated when the detectives reached him. Hall endeavored to speak, but the gash that had opened his wind pipe made it impossible for him to articulate distinctly. The detective leaned forward and thought that he understood the man to say something about getting a doctor.

As the man continued to mumble unintelligible words, the blood flowed in a thick stream from the wound upon his neck and stained his garments and his hands.

Suddenly Hall started up and before the horrified detectives could detain him, climbed over a fence near the coal shed, as though determined to continue his flight. On the other side he grew faint from loss of blood and was easily detained by the detectives.

Chance to Recover.

The patrol wagon was summoned and Hall was taken to the emergency hospital at police headquarters. There he was attended by Dr. S. G. Paul, assistant city physician, who ordered his removal to St. Mark's hospital. Owing to Hall's strength and splendid physical condition, it is thought that he may recover. It was said that Hall had been drinking heavily for several days.

There was a report yesterday that Hall is a brother of H. E. Hall, an insurance agent of Denver, who recently married the divorced wife of Robert L. Anderson, who at present occupies rooms in the Constitution block. Mrs. Anderson ran away from her husband and four children two years ago and went to Los Angeles. Her husband followed her and induced her to return. Not long after that she went to Denver, where, it is understood, she met H. E. Hall. After vainly endeavoring to induce Mrs. Anderson to return to her children, Anderson allowed her to get a divorce on Aug. 13. He was informed that Mrs. Anderson married Hall in Chicago after the divorce was granted.

MICHIGAN MEMBER IS MEEK

Congressman Diekmann Absolves the President From Wrongdoing and Swallows His Pride.

Washington, March 27.—The question of whether or not President Roosevelt is an intolerant man after the fashion of King George III arose in the house of representatives today. The discussion was founded on a local newspaper story covering what purported to be the details of an interview yesterday between the president and Representative Diekmann of Michigan, in which the president was represented as thumping his desk and berating Mr. Diekmann for having joined in the report of the sub-committee on the judiciary committee censuring Judge Willey of the United States court in China. Under the statement of Representative Williams of Mississippi, the minority leader, that he purposed to offer a resolution to ascertain if the president had encroached upon the privileges of a committee of congress, Mr. Diekmann absolved the president from the suggestion of intolerance made by Mr. Williams and said that the president in the conversation which took place had displayed the greatest liberality in resolving his explanation of the circumstances leading up to the filing of the report. He denied that the president thumped his desk, but admitted that he gesticulated a good deal. Following this incident the house engaged in a desultory debate on the agricultural appropriation bill, which, however, had not been materially amended when it was laid aside. At 5 p. m. the house adjourned.

How Can a Grocer Tell?

E. C. Allen, a grocer, trusted a family for about $30.00. Wife and husband skipped. Wife returned and had a man with her. Allen smiled them about 3 p. m.; wife said her husband had left her and that the man was only a friend. Same day wife and man registered at a rooming house. Allen got busy. We did the rest. He has the money now.

Question: Was the man her husband? How can a grocer tell? Turn in your claims and we will collect some for you.
